Research Centre for Patient Involvement 1st Birthday

On October 1st ResCenPI celebrated its first birthday and Lotte, Hilary, Sarah & Ditte celebrated the day with a virtual breakfast. On the same day the centre's website launched. We welcome your feedback about its content, and encourage people to forward their news and profiles to keep it up-to-date. ResCenPI has now 70+ affiliated members, and we are proud to showcase people's research achievements, especially given COVID-10 challenges. The website, launch symposium, annual seminar and regular meetings helped people to stay connected and move their research ideas forward together. ResCenPI delivered activities flexibly via face-to-face (e.g. teaching, research meetings and Journal Club). Hilary moved to remote working from March due to Danish and British travel and work policies. We look forward to year 2, and working with ResCenPI members to take forward our research activities in the best way possible with the opportunities ahead. Thank you for your enthusiasm, contribution and continued support of ResCenPI.

Upcoming researchers

On the 1st of September ResCenPI expanded by employing Sarah Cecilie Tscherning in a three month fixed term post as a Research Assistant, and she just received funding for her PhD-protocol. Sarah is developing her PhD protocol to investigate patient partners within research about patient involvement interventions. We are delighted to welcome Sarah to the ResCenPI team.

Moreover three of our affiliated members, Line Raunsbæk Knudsen, Louise Engelbrecht Buur & Anne Wilhøft Kristensen have received funding to finance their PhD.

Line Raunsbæk Knudsen investigates the effect of patient a web-based patient education programme. Louise Engelbrecht Buur is developing and evaluation an intervention using qualitative and quantitative methods to support shared decisions about End-of-Life Care between people with end stage kidney disease, their relatives and health professionals. Anne Wilhøft Kristensen is exploring potential inequalities regarding proton therapy as well as barriers experienced by the patients and the clinicians regarding proton therapy offered in clinical trials. This will lead to the development of a patient decision aid to support the shared decision making process between patients and clinicians.

Congratulations to all of you!

ResCenPI 1st annual seminar

On the 23rd of September, ResCenPI held the first annual seminar focusing on approaches used to find evidence for the content of these complex interventions during the development research phase. The day was a mix of presentations, discussions and digital feedback supports attendees to disseminate findings, share expertise, learn new approaches, and develop collaborations for their specialism and area of patient involvement intervention research. With 13 presentations from researchers and 40 attendees from Central Denmark Region this was a great day. Keep posted for more training, dissemination and network meetings in 2021.

Conferences 2021

Look out abstract deadlines to medical decision making conferences in June 2021.
